Budapest Trial Of "Plotters" Declared Farce

Laszlo Rajk Said to Be Victim Of Own Methods as Communist

Zoltan Pfeiffer, Independent Party member of the Hungarian National Council in Exile, describes in the following statement to the International News Service that the whole Budapest trial is a farce. In Budapest, Hungarian Foreign Minister Laszlo Rajk has pleaded guilty in charges of participating in the alleged American-Yugoslav plot to install Marshal Tito at the head of the Western Allies' Balkan satellite state. In fact, Rajk is the intimate anti-Nazi underground days when a Comintern group was active here.

By ZOLTAN PFEIFFER

NEW YORK, Sept. 16 (INS)—Laszlo Rajk, young and handsome former Hungarian Foreign and Interior Minister, is a victim of his own police methods.

Here is a 41-year-old Communist whom I knew in the anti-Nazi underground days, suddenly standing up in a Budapest court and saying he was an anti-Communist spy for years.

He says that he plotted with American and Yugoslav agents to overthrow the Government and put Marshall Tito of Yugoslavia in charge of the Satellite states.

FANATIC COMMUNIST

There never was a more fanatic Communist than Rajk, the son of a cobbler who arose on a rough road.

Stirring Up Distrust For West

NEW YORK, Sept. 16 (INS)—The former chief of the United States military mission in Hungary charged tonight that "drugged and beaten puppets" are being used by the Communists at the Budapest treason trial to build up "hate and distrust" toward the United States.

George S. Kovach, a former army colonel, said he was named as an alleged plotter against the Hungarian Government because of his popularity with the people for returning their greatest national and historic relic—the holy right hand of St. Stephan.

The 45-year-old Kovach asserted the Communists don't want anyone who symbolizes the United States to be popular in the eyes of the Hungarian people.

For this reason, he said, the Communists are using the trial to smear America.

The plane bound from Vancouver to Zeballos, was piloted by Capt. R. Duncan O. Matheson, G. Sandridge, J. Bridgeman, A. Jones and P. Salkin, passengers, escaped injury. Right wing of the plane was smashed, engine damaged, propellers bent, and part of tail assembly wrecked. Witnesses said pilot showed great skill in preventing plane from plunging into river.

Asserts Vishinsky Planning Attack on U.S. Atomic Policy

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y., Sept. 16 (INS)—An authoritative spokesman revealed today Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky is coming to the U.N. General Assembly to set off a violent new Russian offensive against the atom bomb and U.S. atomic policy.

Rajk himself employed these means when he was in charge of the Communist police. Added to his present torture is the fact that his wife undoubtedly is threatened. Her name is Julian Poeldi Rajk. He loves her and he knows she is in danger.

Rajk's case is simple. First of all it is impossible that he was a police informant against Communists.

TOO POPULAR

All that happened actually was that he was much too popular with the masses compared with Matyas Rakosi, the Moscow-trained boss who is known as "potato head."

The ambition of Rajk brought him into conflict with Rakosi, an older man who spent years in jail to achieve his rank and who was stronger because of Moscow backing.

The "potato head" appointed Rajk as Foreign Minister—which Rakosi actually controlled anyway—to remove his opponent from the important Interior Ministry which controls the police.

At that time, in the Summer of 1948, the fight between Moscow and the Nationalist or "Titoist" factions of the Communist Party already was raging.

It is very evident that Rakosi had an excellent opportunity, and one which he seized quickly, to denounce Rajk as a Titoist. It was a ready-made chance to remove Rajk forever and also promote the Moscow-engineered Cominform war against Tito.

Tsarapkin cited

The white-haired former Soviet prosecutor will direct the Soviet delegation in the Assembly next week in demands that the United States and its allies be compelled to yield to some form of atomic energy control acceptable to Russia.

In the Security Council today, Soviet and Dimitri Manuilsky showed beyond doubt that Vishinsky will keynote the new attack on blunt charges that the United States is mapping and moving toward an atomic war against Russia.

Tsarapkin and Tsarapkin cited

President Truman was cited for a statement of last April that he would not hesitate if necessary to use the atom bomb as he did in Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

Listing various statements about the military use of atomic energy by other American key figures, Tsarapkin cried:

"While the United States delegation on the U.N. Atomic Energy Commission makes hypocritical statements on the Baruch scheme, the United States General Staff drafts plans for aggression against Russia and countries of the new democracy. Secretaries Johnson and Symington are reporting to Congress on the development of American long-range bombers for the bombing of Soviet cities."

Manuilsky, in previous years chairman of the Communist organization which preceded the present Cominform, was equally incisive in his slashing attack on United States atomic policy. He cited the same names given subsequently by Tsarapkin and added excerpts from American magazines describing the future atomizing of Russian cities.

R.C.A.F. Units in Race To Exchange Positions

OTTAWA, Sept. 16 (CP)—R.C.A.F. It was the first stage of "Operation Mobility," a surprise exercise and Montreal buzzed with activity demanding that each unit pack up tonight as the units raced—against and move headquarters across the country, unpack and be fully operational at the other station by 8 a.m. local time on Monday.

Back Benchers Start Filing Queries, Ideas

OTTAWA, Sept. 16 (CP)—A proposal for a Commons Committee on Health, Welfare, Social Security and Housing came today from Donald Fleming (P.C.—Toronto-Eglinton) as Parliament's private members started throwing around their questions and ideas.

With the session just one day old, the back benchers filed on the Commons order paper some 16 queries and resolutions, ranging all the way from a request for a new House committee to choose a Canadian flag to a revival of the proposal that a native of Canada be the next Governor-General.

The questions will eventually be answered by the Government. The resolutions may or may not get debated and their chances of adoption are slim. But at least they let the folks back home know their boy is in there pitching.

Mr. Fleming's resolution proposed a committee of 35 members and is in line with the interest he showed in such matters during the last Parliament. The proposal for the flag committee came from a Liberal member, Jean Richard of Ottawa East. The Governor-General resolution came from Bonne Arsenault (L., Bonaventure).

FIRST OF FLOOD

Here are some of the others, the first of what will become a flood before the session is much older.

From Robert Fair (S.C.—Battle River)—a series of questions about the Anglo-Canadian wheat agreement.

From Stanley Knowles (C.C.P.—Winnipeg North Centre)—a renewal of his attempts to have a Royal Commission probe pension rights of C.P.R. employees involved in the Winnipeg strike of 1919 and 1920.

From Angus MacInnis (C.C.P.—Vancouver East)—a resolution that Ottawa seek provincial co-operation to formulate a social security system.

From Dan Molvor (L.—Fort William)—a resolution for government to prospectors.

From Donald Brown (L.—Essex West)—a resolution for consideration of the use of a hospital ship and planes to care medically for the Eskimos and Northern Indians.

From Mr. Fair—a renewal of his perennial attempts to give clemencies to their land to all soldier settlers from the Great War.

Soldiers Make Daring Escape From Red Jail

BERLIN, Sept. 16 (CP)—One American and three British soldiers made a daring escape last night from a Russian prison in East Berlin, the United States army announced today.

The American, Private John J. Slinkiewicz, 26, laid offers he and his compatriots burrowed through a thick wall with a blunt knife and managed to reach through and open their cell door.

Slinkiewicz was taken to an army hospital where he was reported in a generally weakened physical condition but not unduly undermined.

He had been held by the Russians since last November 5 when he rode a streetcar into the Soviet sector by mistake. He said he was questioned 16 days and nights and "beaten when they said I was lying."

Wife's Allergy to Husband May Set Legal Precedent

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 16 (AP)—Pretty Joyce Holdridge, who says she breaks out in a rash even when her husband's name is mentioned, won an annulment today from a judge who said it may set a legal precedent.

Mrs. Holdridge, 27, testified she loved Nolan Holdridge, 26, San Francisco watchmaker, and he loved her.

"Whenever I was with him, I would break out in a rash from head to toe. This would clear up 24 hours after I left him . . . but it would recur even at the mention of his name."

Holdridge was not in court.

Judge Ray Brockmann called the Holdridges "guinea pigs" and commented:

"Courts may be forced to recognize what medical science has discovered—that such allergies as Mrs. Holdridge complains of are a fact and not a caprice."

To Ask Minimum Wage Of at Least 75 Cents

Municipal Officials, Citizens Pay Last Respects to Alderman

Members of the councils of the four Greater Victoria municipalities joined with civic officials and employees and several hundred mourners who yesterday lined the nave of Christ Church Cathedral to pay final tribute to the late Alderman John Baxter.

The alderman died last Tuesday, following a heart attack, at the age of 66. His death ended a long career of faithful service to the city he loved, culminating last December in his election to City Council.

During 26 years as a member of the city staff, the late Alderman Baxter served as secretary to eight Victoria mayors.

As an alderman he was fearless and forthright in debating the policies he championed.

While funeral services were being conducted in Christ Church Cathedral by Rev. A. H. Cummings, the doors of the City Hall remained closed as a silent gesture of honor.

Following the services, the casket, draped with a Union Jack, was carried to Royal Oak Burial Park for cremation.

Members of City Council acted as honorary pallbearers. M. F. Hunter, city clerk; Fire Chief R. T. Brindie, Arthur Stott, J. D. Norrie, Reginald Speck and Glen Smith were pallbearers.

AWARD ROAD CONTRACT

Contract for construction of a new road from Quadra Street, through the Elkhorn property to Blenkinsop Road, has been awarded by the Saanich Council to the Georgia Construction Company of Vancouver.

The Mainland firm submitted a tender of $48,905 for the project, and was one of five companies which tendered. The project also includes building of a road up to the top of Rithet Hill, where Saanich is constructing a 7,000-gallon reservoir.

John B. Tribe, municipal clerk, said yesterday the company intends to ship equipment here by barge today, and work probably will start next week.

GO TO INSTALLATION

TO ATTEND CONVENTION

At least two Victoria dentists will attend an annual convention of the American Dental Association, to be held in San Francisco through October 17 to 20. They will be Dr. Harold Turner and Dr. J. Doham.

It is expected at least 8,000 delegates will attend the party, and a number of them will be members of the Canadian Dental Association—of which Drs. Turner and Doham are members.

Not to be outdone by several others who have raised exceptionally large tomatoes in local gardens, Charles Garbutt, Gordon Head, came to The Daily Colonist yesterday with three specimens weighing one pound and four ounces each.

NEW MAPS OF CITY

A total of 50,000 new "folded size" street maps of Victoria have been printed for the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau. They are now being distributed at the new bureau building, reports Commissioner George Warren.

Backs of the maps feature a brief summary of the city's history, business, tourist and industrial highlights, and includes three exceptionally appealing illustrations. One is of the new publicly bureaus, another of the Inner Harbor, and the third shows a busy intersection of Douglas Street.

MAY GO TO CONFERENCE

It is expected that G. S. Andrews, chief engineer of the Provincial Government Air Surveys Division, and William Hall, assistant chief engineer, will attend the semi-annual conference of the American Society of Photogrammetric Engineers to be held in Denver, Colo., from October 3 to 5.

Mr. Andrews said the conference will study the application of aerial photography to various scientific fields, such as geology and soil conservation.

The conference will be of particular interest to British Columbia representatives since Western conditions will be stressed.

Conferences of the society are usually held in Washington, D.C.

RULING REVERSED

City Solicitor A. J. Paton yesterday reversed a ruling given at last Tuesday's meeting of City Council by declaring that permission for the holding of parades on city streets can only be given by the council.

Earlier, Mr. Paton had held that the Chief of Police had authority to grant permits for parades.

Mr. Paton said the Chief of Police had been granting parade permits for many years and the question of legality had never before come up.

Pair to Be Sentenced For Theft of $60 Suit

Michael Burns, 717 Pandora Avenue, charged with theft of a $60 suit from D'Allard's Ltd., 709 Yates Street, was found guilty in city police court yesterday by Magistrate H. C. Hall.

Burns was remanded to Monday for sentence along with Doris Wilson, who had pleaded guilty to the same charge. Burns, who previously elected a preliminary hearing on the charge, yesterday decided to have his trial in city court.

Magistrate Hall replied that Miss Wilson's story was "nonsense" and so was Burns' contention that he didn't see the suit carried out.

Two of Saanich Ward Six's Pickles followed up by presenting out that a split may harm the feelings of the executive of the ward's secession petition before the ratemakers' association. The meeting Provincial Government.

Claude Butler, president of the Saanich Chamber of Commerce, was chairman.

RESOLUTION PASSED

A resolution was passed, stating that "in view of the fact that fire protection services are paid for out of general revenue, the members of the ward be authorized and instructed to press for a fair share-of-services for Ward Six and maintain that pressure until the ward is adequately serviced."

Called by Councillor Kersey, the meeting was better attended than any meeting of its kind for more than a decade, according to old-timers. The walls of the tiny Keating Temperance Hall were tested to their capacity as more than 200 persons jammed in. Even standing space was taken up.

Although other business was discussed, the trend of the discussion kept wandering back to the problem of getting the pair together. Eventually, the meeting managed to affect a reconciliation between the two, and at the conclusion of the meeting, Councillor Kersey and Mr. Pickles shook hands and resolved to go on fighting for Ward Six.

TEARS UP RESIGNATION

The meeting passed a "general vote-of-confidence" in Councillor Kersey but attached no strings to it.

The confidence vote was not on any specific action of the councillor. The meeting soon was tossing orchids at the work of both the men and the evening ended harmoniously.

After the confidence vote, Councillor Kersey said he would tear up his resignation from the executive of the Ward Six Ratepayers' Association.

Mr. Pickles expressed great gratitude for the "happy turn of events."

Councillor Kersey resigned from the executive of the ratepayers' association in protest of statements leveled at the efficiency of the Saanich fire department and the manner in which they were presented to the council.

The councillor opened the meeting by stating his position, and Mr.

Williams, London, England, the nephew of Alexander Crawford who died without a will at Deep Cove in 1946. Mr. Williams, the son of the dead man's sister, was judged next of kin.

Mr. Justice A. D. Macfarlane said he felt there was sufficient evidence to show that Mr. Williams was right.

An amending the British North America Act

PRIME Minister St. Laurent's announcement that the ten Provinces will be called into consultation to discuss suggested changes in the British North America Act, together with his views on that, will be of interest throughout the country. There is no reason to strain the explanation given. It is a natural step to make Canada's constitution amendable by herself. Mr. St. Laurent has given in advance his undertaking that only matters of Federal jurisdiction will be touched on without the full assent of all of the Provinces, and that the initial amendment in the Act itself will be submitted to ratification by all parties concerned.

While Canada has exercised complete independence in national affairs, for some time, with the King-in-Parliament as its warrant and guide, the written constitution of the country has not been brought up to date in that respect. To do so now is to add little, but it will give a clearer restatement of the autonomous powers of this nation. A far greater consideration, and one which none of the ten Provinces can safely neglect, is their own guarantees under the B.N.A. Act. Powers of direct taxation, control over property rights and other matters wholly within the jurisdiction of the Provinces have been heavily encroached upon in two world wars. Within Provincial autonomy the Provinces' assent still must come first, or else a fundamental support of the constitution would be eliminated.

The Prime Minister, however, has set out the case fairly and squarely, and there is no reason to suppose in what is now to come that the Provinces will be slighted. It will be for them to take part in the discussions, to bring forward their own views and, in time, to reach full accord with the Dominion on what can be done in the best interests of the nation, now fully grown and autonomous.

Dedication of Arena Will Restore an Attraction

THE dedication of the Memorial Ice Arena one week from tomorrow will restore to Victoria a badly-needed attraction, the lack of which has proved hampering and frustrating for longer than it is pleasant to recall. Now is the time to write off the mistakes of the past and to concentrate on making the Arena a going concern in the life and recreation of the community. A trusted Arena Commission and an experienced manager are good starts in that direction, while the structure itself will be a handsome memorial to the City's war dead.

Plans already set in motion indicate that the management of the Arena is in progressive hands. The objective of making the rink of the widest possible use to every section and age group of the community is a sensible one. Before profit and loss are weighed, the recreation and enjoyment that such a facility will bring to Victoria, coupled with the influence it will have on the lives of growing young people are considerations in the front rank.

In so far as financing goes, it would profit none to try to maintain the construction value of the edifice and to seek a profit on that in operations. Not only would that be extremely difficult, but it would hamper the present and future management of the rink with an impossible financial burden. Far better for the City and for all concerned to write off the dead-weight part of the loss that arose through many unforeseen circumstances, to give the Arena a fair book value and to go ahead from thence with the aim of getting the best possible use of the asset.

Savings Bonds Are For the Average Canadian

ONE would not say that the habit of saving was engendered by the war, but undoubtedly it had a fillip through the widespread sale of war bonds. Under the impulse of patriotism Canadians learned that money laid away for a rainy day was a good practice, well worth following after the guns had ceased to fire. That is the basis of the support which has been given to the peacetime sale of Federal savings bonds, the next issue of which will go on the market next month.

As before, the bonds will bear a reasonable rate of interest and will be in denominations suitable to most purses. With a $1,000 limit placed on individual purchase, the issue demonstrates it is intended for the average Canadian citizen rather than the heavy investor. Convenient instalment bonds are arranged so that as many people as possible may take advantage of the scheme. No better investment in its class could be made, for the credit of Canada is back of these bonds.

Even in an era where paternalism tends to be rampant there is need for the common virtue of personal thrift. A little laid by each month provides a bulwark against emergency that is to be encouraged rather than slighted. In this instance bond buyers do two things; they help themselves, and they help their country at one and the same time. That is an unbeatable combination when directed towards stable ends, as the war years proved. The same co-operation can be practiced with equal success in peacetime, to the benefit of the investors when savings have to be drawn on to meet an unexpected turn.

BUS FARES

Sir.—I see that Alderman Diggory is asking for suggestions regarding the raising of bus fares. I would like to suggest that they lower them. That is the way Timothy Eaton, Robert Simpson and Henry Ford made a success of their businesses—by lowering prices.

I think, with hundreds of others, that the bus fares have reached their limit and, if we are to have a yearly increase, it is time to look for some other means of transportation. I would advise against killing the goose that lays the golden eggs.

FIVE TRIPS TO FIRE

Sir.—Considerable controversy has been waged during the past few months concerning the Saanich Fire Department, and it is very hard for one to decide whether such criticism was merited or not. Viewing the matter objectively, one is inclined to come to the conclusion that there has been a certain lack of organization, but it is difficult to attach the blame.

However, I must bring up a matter that occurred during the past two weeks which can not be very well explained away. Early in September a fire was lit on the Seath Farm at the foot of Tanner Road. I presume a permit was issued by the Fire Department to the party who lit the fire to burn brush. Whoever issued that permit showed very poor judgment or lack of judgment in view of the weather conditions that have existed during the past month. The area in question is heavily timbered with cedar, balsam and maple.

On Sunday, September 4, a neighbor called my attention to the fact that sparks were flying around my barn. I immediately called the Fire Department and a crew came out with a pump and, as they thought, extinguished the fire.

However, on Tuesday, September 6, the fire broke out again, and again I called on the Fire Department. I presume they paid it another visit, although I never heard any word from them. On Sunday, September 11, the fire broke out again and, on being warned by a neighbor, I rang up the department again. Apparently they came out and were told there was no fire; but my neighbor, who was becoming nervous by this time, rang up and was told there was no fire. He told the officer in charge that if they came out to his house he would show them the fire. This they did and they eventually tackled it in earnest and, I believe, it has now been extinguished, over a week after it was first reported and after the Fire Department made five trips at considerable expense to the taxpayer. A careful check a day or two after the first alarm would have prevented so many trips.

Here was a real fire hazard as, had a real fire broken out, the first thing that would have been cut off would have been the water supply, as all the wells are located in the valley where the fire was. Several houses would have gone up in flames, as there would have been no water to fight a fire.

These are facts, and it is evident that somebody fell down in dealing with the matter. Only the fact that we had no southeast wind for over a week saved a serious situation.

"Tell Me Not Here . . ."

Tell me not here, it needs not saying,
What tune the enchantress plays
In aftermaths of soft September
Or under blanching may.

For she and I were long acquainted
And I knew all her ways.

On russet floors, by waters idle,
The pine lets fall its cone.

The cuckoo shouts all day at nothing
In leafy dells alone;

And traveller's joy beguiles in autumn
Hearts that hay lost their own.

On acres of the seeded grasses
The changing burnish heaves;

Or marshalled under moons of harvest
Stand still all night the sheaves;

Or birches strip in storms for winter
And stain the wind with leaves . . .

Oil Prospects

By FRANK KELLEY

EOLOGISTS familiar with oil-bearing rock structures have long known there are possibilities of locating the "liquid gold" anywhere in the vicinity of a line drawn along the west coast of North America, between the proven Mexican and California "fields" and that section of Alaska where oil lands have been under reserve by the United States Government and for all concerned to write off the dead-weight part of the loss that arose through many unforeseen circumstances, to give the Arena a fair book value and to go ahead from thence with the aim of getting the best possible use of the asset.

Whether oil fields of commercial importance will be found any place along this line is something only the future and private enterprise can prove. It has been drilled for on the Olympic Peninsula, Vancouver Island and the Lower Mainland of British Columbia with indifferent results, so far.

No doubt potential oil lands exist along the line indicated. There are plenty "showings", but just where a "field" of worthwhile possibilities will be developed must depend upon further and more intensive exploration, the kind only men with vision, experience and the necessary funds can undertake.

Recent announcements to the effect that a Canadian concern was about to explore a certain area in the Queen Charlotte Island group was an assurance that possibilities of developing an oil "field" there were not being overlooked; but was it altogether good business for the Government of British Columbia to place, immediately following the announcement, a reserve on Queen Charlotte Island lands not already alienated? There's not much encouragement for private enterprise, which the same Government has stated it hopes to encourage, in the decision.

Had the prospects of finding oil on the Queen Charlottes been something new, the reserve wouldn't look so much like a notice to private enterprise to "keep out", when, unless the Government is prepared to spend a lot of money in a gamble of sorts, it should be doing everything possible to encourage the development of new sources of revenue, having every authority for protecting the interests of the people through equitable legislative enactments once production on a commercial scale could be established.

DUNCAN, Sept. 16.—Duncan residents plan to support the Red Cross Blood bank. On September 27 a mobile unit will be in the city to take the precious fluid from volunteers. Cowichan Branch of the Canadian Legion is backing the campaign. Mayor J. C. Wrang has appealed to all healthy citizens to help the Red Cross. The mayor has his name on the list as a donor.

A large and enthusiastic gathering was on hand at Genoa Bay Lodge for the installation of officers and presentation of a charter of the newly-formed Duncan Kiwanis Club. Representatives from several other clubs and organizations were present. John Langenbach of Raymond, Wash., was the principal speaker. Dennis Hagan of Victoria was toastmaster. Hugh Moloney is president; Lindsay Louren and Hall Mackenzie, vice-presidents; F. J. McEwan, treasurer, and P. A. Gallagher, secretary. Dancing followed the dinner and installation ceremonies.

Preston Post No. 10, Duncan Native Sons, sent a resolution to the Dominion and Provincial Governments asking that they render assistance in order to keep Fairbridge Farm School open. According to reports, Fairbridge will have to close in the near future owing to lack of funds. The meeting felt that the school had done a good job and should be allowed to continue. Latest reports are that the school will remain open until the present pupils complete their courses.

Duncan's new fire engine went into action recently on two fronts. There were two alarms turned in within the space of five minutes. They were within a block of each other. Firemen proceeded from one fire to the other, and made short work of them. The new fire hall will be opened in the near future. Painters are putting on the finishing touches, and it is being furnished with suitable fixtures.

Saanich Group Requests Telephone Plan Merger

BRENTWOOD, Sept. 16.—At the first Autumn meeting of the Saanich Chamber of Commerce at the Women's Institute Hall, Brentwood, Claude Butler, president, reported that a resolution objecting to any increase in telephone rates in the area, and suggesting merging of Keating and Sidney exchanges with a 5-cent toll to Victoria, had been passed by the executive and forwarded to the Public Utilities Commission.

V. C. Dawson gave details of the new folder advertising the Saanich Peninsula, which was arranged in co-operation with the Sidney and North Saanich and Saanich Chambers of Commerce. Copies were distributed at the meeting, and others can be had through Mr. Dawson or H. D. Patterson, the secretary.

Wind conditions last Spring at Beach Drive, opposite Brenta Lodge, and at the lower end of Stelly's Cross Road, were discussed. Councillor W. J. Kersey promised to take up the matter with the Saanich Council.

GOES BEFORE COUNCIL

Mr. Dawson brought up the question of the encroachment of trees and brush on Wallace Drive from Benvenuto Avenue to Merchant-

Road, on Wallace Drive on the way to Saanich from Stelly's Cross Road, and also on Stelly's Cross Road from West Street to Logana Farm. Councillor Kersey agreed to bring the matter before the Council.

A committee with J. Dixon Holway as chairman, and H. Andrews, R. Muirhead, A. E. Burdon, E. Logan and J. A. Smethurst as members, was formed to organize a country fair for the South Saanich area.

Letters were ordered written to the Provincial Department of Public Works about stops on main bus routes, and to the Victoria and Saanich Beaches and Parks Committee about the untidy condition of the park at the ferry landing.

NANAIMO, Sept. 16.—Provincial Police are searching for an automobile stolen from E. Taylor, Nanaimo. Walter Sandford, Cedar district, reported that a rifle and shotgun had been stolen from his automobile.

Minister Gives Reasons For Boosting Payments

NANAIMO, Sept. 16.—Hon. George S. Pearson, speaking at a Nanaimo Rotary Club luncheon, denied that sales tax collections would be in any way applied to hospitals. He was giving a sketch of the hospital plan from the days when he was a member of the Opposition and had a seat on the commission to investigate the proposed hospital plan.

He estimated the Government was faced with a possible deficit this year, which would be more next year if the original rates were maintained. He believed the new rate fixed for the hospital plan would be sufficient to carry it.

He explained in detail the raises in hospital wages and reduced hours in hospitals that had considerable bearing on the plan in many ways. He admitted he was aware some of the hospitals were still paying low wages. During the year, wage rates in hospitals had been increased by $3,500,000, and since 1946 the increase was approximately $6,500,000.

Collections under the hospital plan, he estimated, would total $10,000,000, compared with $10,500,000 estimated. He said there remained some in low income brackets who could not pay.

May Have Hall At View Royal

VIE ROYAL, Sept. 16.—An offer from Fire Chief A. E. Beasley of the View Royal Volunteer Fire Brigade to build a fire hall by volunteer labor has been submitted to directors of the View Royal Community Association for consideration. Two sets of plans are being prepared, calling for either a one-story or a two-story building approved by the building inspector. The building, to be erected on the grounds of the community association, facing on Wallace Drive, would measure about 30 by 30 feet.

A special meeting of all ratepayers will be called immediately following receipt of plans, and suitable means of raising the necessary funds for material will be decided.

W. Cole, chairman of the fire trustees, is in sympathy with the proposal. He said it was essential that more suitable and adequate provision be made to house new equipment owned by the district.

Mr. Cole pointed out the fire department's more than 30 volunteer firemen had made 14 calls to fires since the equipment was turned over to residents last April.

In similar charge, it would be jail for him.

Gibbs said he came to town to see his sick wife at the Indian Hospit, and paid $3.75 to a white man Joseph Mason, Thomas Rickard and for the liquor that got him into Walter Joyce. The association has 445 paid-up members.

Cash, More Lottery Records Seized by Police Gaming Squad

A city police gaming squad, directed by Deputy Police Chief John Blackstock, yesterday seized the first quantity of money in connection with the current investigation into a Dominion-wide lottery ring.

The deputy chief said further records have been seized, all of which will be valuable evidence in the case of Frank Hilton, a 16-year-old navy veteran and former resident of Melville, Saskatchewan, who has been charged with unlawfully conducting a sweepstake. He was arrested downtown on Wednesday by Constables Alex Nichols and William Andrews.

Meanwhile, in answer to inquiries, an official of the Attorney-General's Department said any buyers, sellers or printers of lottery tickets are guilty of breaking the lottery laws as outlined in the Criminal Code.

Deputy Chief Blackstock will present his evidence this morning to Claude L. Harrison, city prosecutor, who will handle the case in court.

Hilton is out on $500 bail and will appear in court Monday for election and plea.

There has been no indication as to whether there will be charges against firms which printed the lottery tickets.

Firm Ordered to Court For Eviction Defiance

Diggin Hibben Ltd. was ordered to appear in Supreme Court next Friday to be given a chance to explain why the company should not be evicted from its 1208 Government Street premises.

The two-story building was expropriated by the Dominion Government in 1946 for a $120,000 consideration. It is to be torn down along with other buildings, demolition of which is already under way, to make way for Victoria's new $2,000,000 Post Office.

Mr. Justice A. D. Macfarlane summoned the company to appear in court on the application of J. G. Ruttan, who appeared on behalf of the Crown to ask for a warrant for possession of the property.

PRESENT AFFIDAVITS

The lawyer presented affidavits from Jene P. Gouge and L. S. W. Wells, both of whom testified that they had made previous unsuccessful demands for possession of the store.

According to Mr. Gouge's affidavit, Mr. Gouge had gone to the premises August 10 and asked for possession from G. A. A. Hebeden, an officer of the firm. Mr. Hebeden had replied that they could not move out because they had no new accommodation ready.

Mr. Wells, Dominion Department of Public Works architect, in his affidavit said he called on Mr. Hebeden at the store last Tuesday. He said he told Mr. Hebeden:

"I have been instructed to demand in the name of the Crown that you give up possession of these premises and hand over the keys to me by six o'clock this evening."

According to Mr. Well's affidavit, Mr. Hebeden replied:

DEMAND REFUSED

"I regret I cannot comply with your demand as I have nowhere to place my goods and I cannot afford them out on the street."

Mr. Wells continued that at 6 p.m. that night he went to the door of the store and found it locked with no one in sight.

Although the company is appealing the Exchequer Court ruling that set the value of the premises on ex-

PRACTICAL TRAINING

The school is designed to give rangers practical training which they formerly had to accumulate by actual practice in the woods.

Men became eligible for training at the new school after a period of trial and practical experience in the service and after passing entrance examinations.

Up to now British Columbia, with lumbering as a major industry, has lagged years behind other provinces in establishing this type of institution. The new unit will give British Columbia the most modern facilities in Canada.

GIVES BRIEF TALK

In a brief talk at the opening, Dr. Orchard said former methods had proved too slow and costly in guaranteeing a perpetual forest crop.

ALSO SHOWPLACE

The new school serves also as a showplace for use of British Columbia woods in natural colors for paneling and exterior finish.

All the commercial varieties of wood and most types of paneling developed in the past few years have been used in construction.

Green timber nursery on which the school is located has a capacity of 10,000,000 seedlings a year.

Mr. Kenney recalled that forest production had grown from $45,000,000 two decades ago to $102,000,000 in 1940 and $360,000,000 last year. This high rate of depletion has hastened the day when the problem had to be faced. To do this the Forest Service needed educated men. As time went on the school would grow itself as an institution which would aid greatly in guaranteeing a perpetual forest crop.

Mr. Kenney recalled that forest production had grown from $45,000,000 two decades ago to $102,000,000 in 1940 and $360,000,000 last year. This high rate of depletion has hastened the day when the problem had to be faced. To do this the Forest Service needed educated men. As time went on the school would grow itself as an institution which would aid greatly in guaranteeing a perpetual forest crop.

Dinner at Antoine's

By FRANCES PARKINSON KEYES

CHAPTER XIV (Continued) himself down sectionally into one of the chairs, Toe Murphy closed the small anteroom, and Joe had let door behind them. "Sit down, Miss

20 Saturday, September 17, 1949 The Daily Colonist

Lalande," he said pleasantly. "Now what can I do for you?"

"Why—THAT'S to say, I thought—you wanted to talk to me." Joe said you wanted to talk to me."

Murphy looked inquiringly at Racinia, who nodded. "I told her what you said, and why you figured the motor accident was a phony. Go ahead and ask her what you want to know."

"The main thing was about that dress," Murphy began. "I'd like a chance to go over that with one of our chemists and . . ."

explained with something like desperation. "I told Joe. After you left our house with poor old Tosie Saturday morning, and I went back to my room, I cut that dress up and burned the pieces."

"That's a big help, all right," Murphy growled. "I mean a big help. Mind telling me why you'd do a thing like that?"

"Yes, I mind," retorted Careese with sudden spirit. "But Joe made me promise I would. I want to leave for New York Saturday and, because it's so terribly important that nothing should interfere with my plans, I'll tell you whatever you want to know. About me, that is. And where I went Saturday. And about the accident. There was one, really."

"There wasn't any accident your car or your brother-in-law's was mixed up in."

"I know there wasn't. Leonce and I went for a drive in the country after my broadcast. Saturday afternoon, that was. He picked me up at the hotel."

"In his car?"

"No. In one of the used cars from the Volsin-Capelle lot. It was a car with a Mississippi license. And we drove down . . ."

"What was the idea of that?"

"It wasn't my idea at all. Leonce didn't want any gossip about us taking a drive out in the country."

"Oh, that was the way of it was it!"

Careese looked down at her fingers. She clasped and unclasped them nervously, but though her voice was low, it was composed as she continued. "He—he—that is—felt that Odile was jealous, and that if she heard gossip about Leonce and myself, with all the trouble her sickness was bringing on, she might . . ."

"It's all right about that part of it," Murphy interrupted—not unkindly, almost as though he were the one to find himself prey to embarrassment. "It's only about the accident I'm asking now. Was that before—or after—you stopped and parked or whatever it may have been."

"Before we . . . I mean, we did stop for a few minutes at the Pakenham Oaks and talked about—well, about Odile, and Leonce said . . . I mean we were there only a little while, and then Leonce said . . . or rather, he started the car and we drove on that gravel road toward Gentilly."

"The Paris Road. That's in St.

Laurentian. And when you get to the Gentilly Road, you could turn back toward town and be coming toward New Orleans from the direction of Mississippi in a car with a Mississippi licence."

Careese looked appealingly toward the corner at Joe.

"Miss Lalande, I've got news for you. If you think your brother-in-law was pulling a sharp dodge with that stuff, you need to be tapped for the simples. That's so shiny at the seams and out at the elbows . . . But that isn't what I meant. If you got as far as the Gentilly Road, you were back inside the city limits of New Orleans. And that road's pretty well patrolled, day and night. So the chances of there being any real kind of auto accident without getting a report on it are zero-zero."

"But we didn't. That was what I started to tell you. It was on that gravel road, and not far from the oaks where we had stopped for a little while. A big truck was parked there, and Leonce wasn't watching. He piled the car right into the back of it."

"Remember whose truck it was?"

"No. I do remember though that the man said he was from some food-freezing plant not far from where we were. And when Leonce gave him some—some money to get his truck fixed he said one of the men at his place would straighten out the dents, and that he wouldn't even have to take it to a garage. And the car we were in, I suppose Leonce had that fixed by the mechanics at Volsin-Capelle's. Because it was their car."

"That'd explain it all right," Captain Murphy said, musingly, at length. "Yes, sir. It sure would. In another parish, so it would be outside of our jurisdiction. And neither your car nor his, and no claim against anybody, if he paid off the truck driver, so there wouldn't be any report to the insurance companies, either."

New Telephone Cable Laid to Mayne Island

Marine News

Twelve miles of new telephone cable—between Point Roberts and Mayne Island—have been laid by the B.C. Telephone Company's cable ship Brico.

Officials of the company here claim it was the largest project of its kind ever handled in the Gulf of Georgia, and cost $175,000.

The job involved the greatest amount to be installed at both ends of the new cable, in addition to the cable itself and the cost of laying.

The new cable, designed to provide additional long distance facilities between the Mainland and Vancouver Island, will eventually augment existing circuits in a similar cable laid down in 1930.

LAID IN ONE PIECE

The entire 60,000 feet of new cable was laid in one piece, five and a half miles stretching through United States waters from Point Roberts to the international boundary off shore. The remaining six and a half miles rest in Canadian waters from the border line to Waugh's Bay on Mayne Island.

After making fast one end at Point Roberts, plant forces aboard the Brico, commanded by Capt. William Orlinethwaite, paid out the cable through the vessel's special machinery as two tug held her on course to Mayne Island.

Course of the vessel was directed by engineering personnel stationed at transits at Point Roberts and

Announcements

Ad Astra Branch, Canadian Legion, will hold first meeting of Winter season at 8 p.m. on Monday, September 18, at Britannia Branch. Guest speakers will be Carl Fallas, Zone Council president, and Les Martin, Provincial Command 3rd vice-president. Members are also reminded of the Battle of Britain Service to be held on Sunday, September 18, Fall-in at Christ Church Cathedral at 3 p.m., service at the Cenotaph at 3 p.m.

The Autumn is beautiful on Vancouver Island, and no spot more so than at Point Roberts, where the sun is located right on the beach with its comfort, charming atmosphere and excellent cuisine is the ideal place to spend an Autumn holiday. Reduced rates for vacations of a week or longer after September 1. Write or phone for information or reservations. Mary Sutherland, Eileen Allwood, co-managers.

JOB DONE RAPIDLY

The actual laying operation was completed in less than five hours. The project was supervised by W. R. Jones, B.C. Telephone Co. general manager. Also on hand were R. J. Mitchell, chief engineer, R. A. Story, outside plant engineer, and C. A. Moore, general plant supervisor. G. R. Drew, supervising foreman of construction, was in charge of landing forces.

Facilities in other stretches of the all-cable route from Vancouver to Victoria, via Mayne Island, ultimately will be increased in order to use the full capacity of the new cable's 46 circuits.

Wind Balks Seiners

A comparatively small fleet of British Columbia seiners is now "weathering it out" at Vancouver after an unsuccessful bid to land what was hoped would be large catches of "pink" salmon off the Dallas Road waterfront.

About 20 seiners were off Dallas Road during the morning hours on Thursday, but were forced to leave the grounds about noon when a strong westerly wind drove them off.

Gordon Barrie, local Federal Fisheries representative, said "a small catch of a few hundred fish" was made. The fishermen, he said, were literally blown off the grounds. They all went to Vancouver.

FAIRLY HEAVY RUN

There is a fairly heavy run of the pinks off the city's waterfront, but it is unlikely the seiners will return to this area in any large numbers.

"That," said Mr. Barrie, "ought to be good news for the fish, and Victoria's sports fishermen."

In Vancouver today the seiners will be attending morning and afternoon meetings at which prices to be paid for pinks—also herring—will be discussed.

Next week, Mr. Barrie said, seiners will be holding for commercial fishing area No. 17, in the vicinity of Canoe Pass—southward from the mouth of the Fraser River.

PLAN EXERCISES

Minesweeping exercises and gunnery practice will be conducted over this week-end by members of Victoria's naval reserve division H.M.C.S. Malahat aboard their headquarters and training ship, H.M.C.S. Sault Ste. Marie.

The Algoma-class minesweeper is scheduled to leave Esquimalt naval base this afternoon at 1. She will carry a class of new entries from H.M.C.S. Naden in addition to naval reservists and her permanent force crew. The Naden group will receive special instruction in minesweeping. There will also be 12 Navy League Sea-Cadets from this area on the trip.

The gunnery practice will be carried out this afternoon in the "firing area" of the Strait of Juan de Fuca. Later the ship will sail for Ganges, on Salt Spring Island, where she will remain overnight. Sailing again tomorrow morning, she will conduct minesweeping operations, and is scheduled to return to Esquimalt tomorrow at approximately 8 p.m.

TO ENTER DRYDOCK

Spruce Mary, slated for service through the Gulf Islands during the Winter months, is to enter Esquimalt drydock Monday for annual overhaul. Workmen of Victoria Machinery Depot Co. Ltd., will handle the job. M. S. Hammill, general manager at V.M.D., estimates the ship will be in the basin at least three days, during which time she will be painted and cleaned and probably have minor repairs made on the hull.

OVERHAUL LINER

The Canadian-Australasian Line's M.V. Aorangi is now undergoing an annual overhaul at Sydney, Australia, and will probably make her next call to this coast late this month, report local agents of the line.

ENGINES BURN OUT

The R.C.A.F. supply ship Malahat, touring northern bases, reported yesterday her engines had burned out and she was drifting off Digby's Island at the western entrance to Hudson Strait.

The Canadian frigate Swans, cruising in the area, has been diverted to the Malahat. The Air Force ship is in no immediate danger and her crew is safe.

Two aircraft will fly to the area to do ice-spotting work for Swans. They will go from Greenwood, N.S., and Goose Bay, Labrador.
